

Do, 02.06.2016

Vortrag: „Doing Things with Tears, or: What, if Anything, Does Ritual Studies Contribute to Understanding Lamenting in Ancient Mesopotamia?“

Prof. Dr. Paul Delnero
(Assyriology, Johns Hopkins University)

Neue Universität
Hörsaal 4a
18-20 Uhr

Since Mesopotamian religious practices are documented in thousands of textual sources from different periods and places the basis for many of these studies has understandably been the philological analysis of written texts. However, Assyriological studies of religion have always been informed by anthropological frameworks for interpreting religious behavior and practice. The lecture and the following seminar focus on the question of the possible contribution of anthropological theory to understanding Mesopotamian ritual. Sumerian ritual laments will be considered from both traditional philological and contemporary anthropological perspectives.

If you are interested in the seminar, please contact Adrian Heinrich:

E-Mail: adrian.heinrich@ori.uni-heidelberg.de

Sonderforschungsbereich 933 an der Universität Heidelberg, gefördert von der Deutschen Forschungsgemeinschaft
Kooperationspartner: Hochschule für Jüdische Studien Heidelberg

TP B01 „Materialisierung gedanklicher Ordnung“ (Altorientalistik/Assyriologie) – Prof. Dr. Stefan Maul

Sonderforschungsbereich 933 – Marstallstraße 6 – D-69117 Heidelberg

MATERIALE TEXTKULTUREN

Materialität und Präsenz des Geschriebenen in non-typographischen Gesellschaften